

GRIEF DROVE GIRL TO DIE.

Della Mason Mourned Five Years for Dead Sisters.

WAS ONLY 16 YEARS OLD.

Showed Bottle of Poison to Family, Said "I Took It," and Fell Dying.

Della Mason, faithful for five years in her love for her dead sisters Mabel and Maggie, lies, a suicide, in the Kings County Hospital to-day in her sixteenth year.

Della had visited the graves of her sisters in Holy Cross Cemetery, Flatbush, every Sunday, rain or shine, since their death, a few days apart, in 1901. She spent two hours in the cold, bleak city of the dead yesterday, and returning to her home in Grant street, near Coney road, not one hundred feet from the cemetery, sat down by the kitchen window, whence she could see the spot where Mabel and Maggie were buried.

The girl was much depressed, and all the efforts of her father and mother, George and Elizabeth Mason, or her sister, Lizzie, and her married sister, Mrs. William Barnes, who was at home, failed to cheer her up.

She showed to a little at the dinner table, and after supper hummed some of the music she had heard at mass in the morning at the little church in East Broadway, near Flatbush avenue.

There was a dance at Bergen Point in the evening, and Della tried to prevail upon her sister Lizzie to go, and on her refusal because of the bad weather, Della said she'd go alone. It would cheer her up.

Her mother opposed this and the disappointed girl acquiesced, but released into her former gloom.

At 10 she put on her hat and cloak and saying she would go out for a walk, left the house.

She had just about time to go to the nearest drug store, half a mile away at Erasmus avenue and Prospect street, when she appeared again.

As she opened the door she held up a little bottle, and exclaimed:

"I took it!"

William Barnes, her brother-in-law, sprang forward and snatched the bottle. It was empty. It was labeled "Carbolic Acid," and bore the warning skull and cross-bones back into the doorway. Della turned back into the doorway, and she got a glass of milk and turned the girl to swallow it, while Lizzie telephoned the Kings County Hospital. An ambulance from the hospital found Della dying. He took her to the hospital unconscious, and she died there at 10 o'clock.

EVEN DEATH Baffles Him.

Paralytic Felt Three Bullets Enter His Body and Will Live.

William Long, sixty-six years old, tried unsuccessfully to end his misery at his home, 100 West Thirty-eighth street. At 9 o'clock this morning he shot himself three times in the right side with a revolver. His hand was unsteady.

It was just his luck not to succeed. Had he no desire to die it is probable that any one of the three bullets would have killed him.

When Bellevue Hospital physicians told him he would live he said:

"I made a bad job of it. I suffered long enough and tried to end it. My bad luck pursued me even to the end of my life."

Long lived with his wife, four years his senior, at the home of Mrs. W. Long, a married daughter. The doctor of his age was in the hospital and will nurse him.

SHOT HIS SWEETHEART.

Three French Killed Himself While His Pretty Victim Lingered for Hours.

PARSONS, N. E. March 11.—George B. French shot his eighteen-year-old sweetheart, Louise Pearl, and then himself last night at the home of Edward Tins, Bunker street, where both boarded.

French did almost instantly, but his victim did not expire until this morning. Jealousy was the cause.

DOWN A SHAFT TO DEATH.

Jacobson, Who Was Only Seventeen, Was Working at 80 Harrison Street When He Fell.

Leopold Jacobson, a laborer, while at work this morning at 80 Harrison street, tumbled down the air shaft. He was instantly killed.

Jacobson lived at 187 Avenue A. He was only seventeen years old.

CHURCH "BOMBS" HARMLESS.

Cyclinders Found on Steps of St. Thomas's in Harlem Were Only Dry Batteries.

The brass cylinders found on the steps of the Roman Catholic Church of St. Thomas the Apostle, in One Hundred and Eighteenth street, near St. Nicholas avenue, Saturday night, and thought to be bombs, were this morning declared by the officials of the Bureau of Combustibles to be nothing but dry batteries. They are just such batteries as are used to give energy to electric bells in data.

All the evening newspapers in New York combined gained 36% columns of advertising last week over last year. Of this the Evening World alone gained 22, leaving but 13% columns of growth to be divided among the seven others.

HEROINE, MOBBED IN STREET, MAY DIE.

MABEL RUSSELL AND DUNLAP.

Mabel Russell, the young woman of twenty-three, who attended Evangelist Wilson H. Dunlap and who was injured in an attack by an east side mob yesterday, may die.

She lies at Dunlap's home, 24 West Twenty-first street, entirely paralyzed. She is unable to move hand or foot. The same thrown at Dunlap, but which struck the young girl in the face, knocked her out of the gospel wagon under the wheels. The wagon passed over her, injuring her spine. The doctors say she is in a most serious condition.

A police sergeant of the Madison street station may find himself on trial for failing to give the evangelist protection when it was asked. It is claimed that this was responsible for the assault. The attack was made at the corner of Jefferson and Madison streets within half a block of the Madison street station. Dunlap, who is a paralytic, has been his gospel wagon, a mission at 120 Madison street. Since he opened he has met with great opposition on account of his proselytism methods among the Hebrews.

"With Miss Russell and another young woman who works with me," Dunlap said today, "I went on Thursday to the Madison street station and asked for protection for our meeting of yesterday. The sergeant promised he would give us protection. We saw him make a note of the request in writing."

"When we got to the mission yesterday afternoon in our wagon, we had no protection. The sergeant who promised us protection for the meeting of yesterday, we saw him make a note of the request in writing."

"It was just his luck not to succeed. Had he no desire to die it is probable that any one of the three bullets would have killed him."

When Bellevue Hospital physicians told him he would live he said:

"I made a bad job of it. I suffered long enough and tried to end it. My bad luck pursued me even to the end of my life."

DROPPED DEAD AT HIS WORK.

Frank Tetry, Foreman of the Western Electric Company, Struck in the Shop.

Frank Tetry, the foreman of the Western Electric Company, dropped dead this morning while at work in the shop, at West and Bethune streets. He was fifty years old.

ROBBED THE POOR CLEANER.

Thieves Took $200 Worth of Clothing from Lamer's Place.

The drying and cleaning establishment of Emil C. Lamer, at 24 West One Hundred and Sixth street, was robbed early this morning of $200 worth of clothing. Lamer, who is a poor man, will have to make good to his customers.

CAUSE UNKNOWN.

Finally Found to Lie in the Coffee.

"We have had a curious and unpleasant experience with coffee drinking, husband and I. I have been a great sufferer for several years with indigestion and heart trouble, and did not know the cause of it until I finally came to the conclusion that it was the use of coffee. So we abandoned the coffee and took up Postum Cereal Food Coffee, which I had seen advertised in the daily papers."

"Since using it, I have, to my great surprise, improved wonderfully. Husband has gained 15 pounds in two months since he left off coffee and the use of Postum. He sleeps soundly at night now which he does not remember having done for several years before on account of nervousness. It is remarkable that people go on in ill health and do not discover the cause of the trouble. 'You may depend upon it we know how to make Postum good, and that is easy, if one will use a sufficient amount and tell it long enough. It is really an elegant and delicious drink. I don't want my name to appear in the paper, if you should publish this testimonial.'"

KILLED BY BLOW; CAVE 3 NAMES.

Mystery Surrounds Death of Unknown Man in Roosevelt Hospital.

Who is the dead man variously entered on the Roosevelt Hospital records as John Smith, Erastus Diehl and Erastus Dale?

The man died this morning and all efforts to find out his real identity have proved fruitless. The police are now working on the case. It is not certain whether he died from injuries following a fall or was assaulted. A blood clot on his brain was the direct cause of death.

The man was found unconscious at Forty-third street and Sixth avenue early in the morning of March 6 by Policeman Gilligan. He had been drinking. A patrol wagon took the man to the West Forty-seventh street police station and from there an ambulance transferred him to Roosevelt Hospital. It was found he was suffering from a blow on the head.

Two days later the man revived and said he was John Smith, a laborer, of 615 West Sixteenth street. Later he said he was Erastus Diehl, thirty-five, of 100 West Fifth street. Again he gave a different name, Erastus Dale. The man had no money but was well dressed. He could give no further account of himself before he died.

At the second address given nothing is claimed to be known of Smith, Diehl or Dale.

A NEW YORK "QUO VADIS?" "In the New Promised Land." By Stenklowitz. Begins in The Evening World Next Saturday.

KILLED MAN FOR A WOMAN.

Piano Player in a Saloon in Newark Shot to Death.

In a fight over a woman early this morning in Newark Louis White, a piano player for Solomon Brown, at 10 Mulberry street, Newark, N. J., was murdered.

The alleged murderer is Charles H. Hohenberger, twenty-five years old, a discharged regular army soldier, who for the last few weeks has been tending bar at 181 New Jersey Railroad avenue, Newark.

Hohenberger came down from upstairs about 1:30 o'clock into the saloon and said his woman companion had robbed him.

The piano player started an altercation, and Hohenberger pulled a revolver and shot White through the neck, killing him almost instantly.

The murderer was arrested.

HAYES'S BAD LUCK BEGUN.

Wife Did Not Complain Even When He Beat Her, but He Broke a Mirror and She Rebelled.

Joseph Hayes, of 9 Hamilton street, beat his wife and got drunk one Saturday night, but the woman did not complain. She said he needed a little recreation. When he broke the mirror she called a policeman.

"Breaking a mirror means seven years bad luck," she said in Essex Market Police Court.

"It's begun already," said Hayes, ruefully, when Magistrate Hogan held him for examination.

SMALLEST OF BABIES DEAD.

All the Care of Bellevue Doctors Couldn't Prolong the Life of Cavalryman West's Daughter. Anna West, one of the smallest babies born in New York, is dead. She was born ten days ago in Bellevue Hospital and weighed only fourteen ounces. She could not retain milk, so was fed on whiskey and oxygen. She gained weight and the doctors were hopeful. Then she gasped and her puny life went out. In all she had taken 135 minims of whiskey and 75 pounds of oxygen.

Her father is John West, member of the Seventh United States Cavalry at Manila.
